

The Telegraph

Madonna's £54,000 facials

The secret to Madonna's youthful skin? Intraceuticals facials, which need to be administered by a special machine. The singer has reportedly bought six, costing £9,000 each.

"I am what I am. And I don't like the idea of someone putting you to sleep then taking knives to you," Madonna once said about cosmetic surgery. What about someone taking a spray gun to you?

The remarkably unlined star, 53, is a fan of Intraceuticals Rejuvenate Daily Serum (£192.95, intraceuticals.com/uk) and its facials, which apparently give the Botox effect without Botox. The facials need to be administered by a special machine - or, in Madonna's case, special machines, plural; she bought six of them at around £9,000 each, meaning she has spent £54,000 in total. Now we know why she has that body, as well as that face.

